Commercial sports betting revenue hit a new all-time high of $7.

5 billion in 2022 - a whopping 72.

Legal sportsbooks handled $93.

1% increase over 2021's handle.

When the tribal sports betting handle is reported later this year, that number will likely surpass the $100 billion mark.

The industry got a boost from the additions of a legal betting market in Kansas and the launch of mobile betting in Louisiana, Maryland, and New York - the latter led all individual states with $1.

3 billion in wagers, creating $14.

Push: A wager that ends as neither a winning nor losing bet.

Handle: The accumulated sum of money wagered on a given sporting event.

Chalk: A slang term for the listed favourite for a given sporting event.

The potential payout is higher than it would be if you bet each selection individually because there is a multiplier involved but each of leg of the parlay must win for the bet to be successful.

You are hesitant to predict both teams can either win or keep their games to within two points but you do feel confident both underdogs can stay within one score, so you move the line of both games six points to +8.

Caroline is riding with Cabbie; Tim is tailing Cabbie.

Not only does that team need to win the game outright, they must do so by a certain number of points.
